

New service offer exclusively for our Premium members

Dear Premium Customers,

We are pleased to announce the imminent launch of an app exclusively for the use of our Premium Members. The Covid-19 pandemic is going to be with us for a considerable length of time, the whole world is affected, and the effort being put in to combat the disease is on a truly global scale. Many other scientific projects have been put on hold so that all available resources can be redirected towards research into the virus. As a result new insights are generated very quickly and our knowledge of the disease is increasing so rapidly, that we see the new app as the ideal platform to keep our Premium Members up to date with the latest findings. Here at Salvagene, we have the advantage of having made an early start on collating the relevant information on our in-house AI (Artificial Intelligence) program. This is the only way we can develop correlations and derive maximum benefit for protecting your health and for our ability to make explicit, individual recommendations.

We make every effort to keep abreast with the rapid pace of development and therefore wish to communicate with our Premium Members on an ad hoc basis and without unnecessary delay. We aim to inform them of any new discoveries that could provide an individual benefit and are specifically relevant to their condition and individual requirements.

We had not planned to launch our app until the end of the year, but we have brought the date forward because of the dynamics of the pandemic. The first step will involve only push notifications. As the development of the app progresses, we will then add further functions. The most important Top Ten to-dos together with the results from tests will have better and faster accessibility. This includes the key values to be optimized as well as the most important indicators in relation to the pandemic, such as cytokine levels and C-19 risk factors.

Further steps in development will include a reminder function for granulate orders, as well as a calendar view of upcoming precautionary check-ups and Salvagene testings. Information on individual drug tolerance will also be included so that, in the event of an emergency, the physician treating the member can immediately see which medications can be used effectively and what side effects are to be expected. As a result of the pandemic, we expect a significant increase in the number of approved drugs coming onto the market; all of them will have individual tolerability levels, which we will check within your pharmaco-gene profile. Current examples are dexamethasone and remdesivir.

We will contact you again when the app becomes available for download.
